

GUIDE to the LIBRARIES

 COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

Study spaces:
Reading rooms and other areas are available for group and individual study.

Hours: Hours vary according to library location and change throughout the semester.

Expert staff: Our librarians specialize in a range of disciplines and offer tailored, in-depth guidance for conducting research.

CLIO: Search articles, books, databases, e-resources, geospatial datasets, and Academic Commons via the online catalog.

Alumni: Lifetime benefits include discounted borrowing privileges and access to library spaces and select e-resources.

Academic Commons: A freely accessible digital repository for research and scholarship produced at Columbia University and its affiliate institutions.

Workshops: Learn about methods and software and access online tutorials, like Lynda.com, for free.

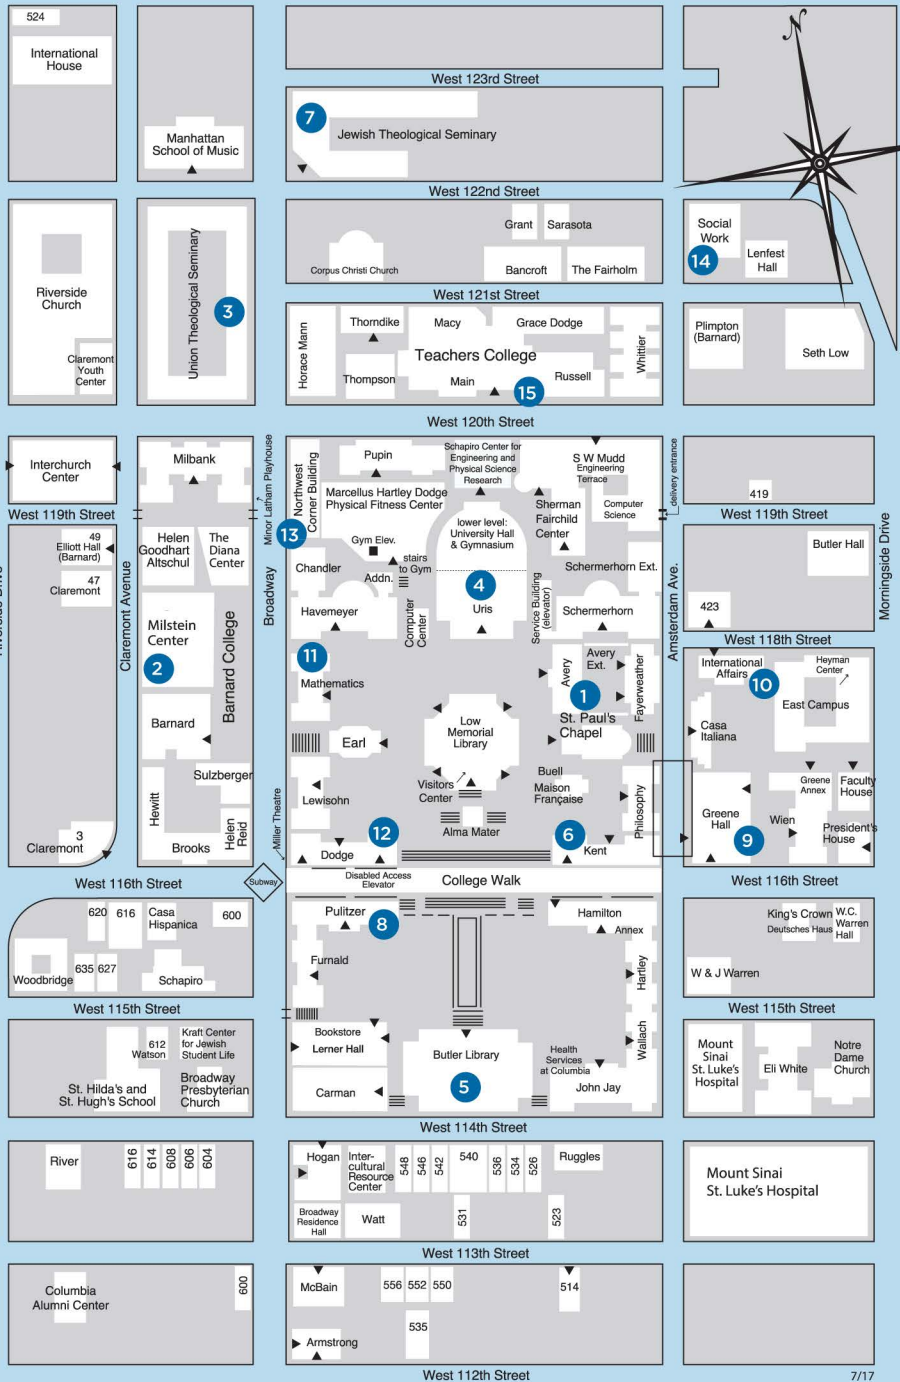

Requesting resources: Request articles, books, and other research materials that aren't available at Columbia from partner institutions and libraries.

Ask a Librarian: Chat with our staff online for help with reference and research.

Library Information Office: Visit the Library Information Office in the lobby of Butler Library with questions about fees and fines, IDs, and library access and privileges.
